

Toussaint
L'Ouverture

problem
To account for success of Toussaint L'Ouverture
I would call him the Washington of his race people but the fame of an ~~emancipator~~ chief bears one blot he killed slaves -
This man's hands are clean - He blithely received for himself he was scrupulous to vindicate his actions - He was hated - his color despised - his brutality contested by his foes - He was a stern man but of a noble character - no dish ambition known in him - The white race - no military chief etc -
